The Latest Prank of the Chicago "Boodlers" and Gamblers.

CHICAGO, ILL., Feb. 17 .- "It was the most desperate work I have ever seen," sald State's Attorney Grinnell last night, referring to the attempt to force an entrance into the vault in Lawyer Wigley's office. "I have known for some time that the "boodlers" were getting desperate and would resort to almost any-thing to thwart me in this investigation, but I never supposed they would attempt burglary in a crowded building. That is what it was, burglary, nothing else, for that warrant for Schneder was only a frall pretext for committing the crime. They know they would not find Schneider there. They did not want Schneider, but they want d the papers which they imagined I had stored there. Now, that I know what they will do, I will say that from this time on the war will be conducted carnestly. It will be a light that will determine whether or not boodlers and cor-ruptionists and gamblers, and others who have flourished through political influence in the past, can continue to flourish. Whoever wins will score a great victory."
